ADVANCING TEXTILE AND GARMENT MANUFACTURING THROUGH SUSTAINABLE INNOVATION

US$3 trillion industry, employing 57 million people worldwide
The global textile and apparel industry is built on complex linear supply chains and has resulted in high human and environmental costs. It is characterised by the high consumption of resources in a long process that generates a large amount of waste. By adopting a cleaner production approach, manufacturers and brands can enjoy the ‘triple bottom line’ of people, profit and planet while contributing to a circular economy.

GROWING DEMAND FOR SUSTAINABLE SOLUTIONS @ ITMA 2019

ITMA has been offering an integrated platform of eco-friendly solutions across the entire textile and garment production value chain. Central to the showcase is a dedicated recycling, waste reduction, and pollution prevention exhibit sector. In recent years, as the industry trends toward green manufacturing, the sector has been attracting strong interest. This is evident as the recycling sector grew in size and number of exhibitors in the last few editions. Come 2019, ITMA is expected to draw a higher level of participation as more exciting eco-friendly solutions are launched.

The Sustainable Apparel Coalition will organize its 2019 full member meeting in Barcelona around ITMA to offer our members the opportunity to easily attend both events. ITMA presents innovative solutions that can be applied to any part of the value chain in a way that aligns with the mission of the SAC and producing apparel responsibly.

Sustainable solutions indicate the strength of a business, how it treats its employees, how well it understands limited resources, and how much it respects its customer. ITMA educates attendees on how to put responsible and cutting-edge practices into place successfully.
